Anna Conn Acquitted

ceived the case late Tuesday. Her attorneys—Gilbert E. Condo, a childhood friend, and William F. Hopkins of Cincinnati—also wept when they heard the verdict.

Mrs. Abbott left immediately for the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Conn in Brookville, Ind. She said she would go to California soon to join her two children who have been living there with an aunt.

Abbott, a Reilly Township farmer, was slain May 31, 1948. Gordon, a farm hand, admitted killing Abbott with a mattock but claimed it was done during an argument. He testified during Mrs. Abbott's trial that Mrs. Abbott knew nothing of the killing until he told her what had happened.

JET MAKES LANDING

WILMINGTON—A jet trainer plane was forced to land in a field near here, but the two occupants escaped injury. The plane,

Bigger City Building

Harrison, Columbus architects and engineers for drawing up preliminary plans and specifications at a cost of approximately $300.

One of the firm members has gone over the buildings here and obtained ideas regarding what will be required to effect an enlargement program.

City Manager Hill outlined the proposal when he presented the proposed ordinance.

The ordinance provides for the appropriation of $500 to meet the expenses necessary for plans and specifications.

No estimate was given as to the probable cost of the project, which is planned to house the city's various departments for many years.

Space Long Needed
For years, city officials have had in mind an addition to the City Building to provide for adequate space, and particularly to eliminate the cold prison, which has been a deplorable place in which to house prisoners.

Plans call for a modern jail for men on the first floor in the rear of the present prison, with modern jail for women on the second floor.

Streams Overflow Again After Rain

Fayette County's creeks and open ditches were running bank-full and spilling out into the bottoms again Thursday after a 1.11 inch rain Wednesday night.

A slight drop in temperature halted the downpour after about six hours, but it did not get cold enough to freeze and halt the runoff from the already saturated fields.

Farm work was limited to chores about the barns and feedlots—and they were deep with mud.

No more rain was predicted for the next 24 hours by the Weatherman, but overcast skies held the threat of showers should the temperature moderate. And, the forecast was for rising temperatures.

(By The Associated Press)
A fresh blanket of snow covered areas in the northern Great Lakes region today but there was no severe wintry weather in that section or in other parts of the country.

The mercury was above the seasonal normal over most of the nation, the weather bureau reported. Temperatures over the north-eastern states moderated after yesterday's sub-zero readings and there were no severe cold spots.

The mildest weather was from the Gulf states northward into the Ohio Valley.

An ordinance was passed authorizing City Manager Hill to purchase a new Chevrolet police cruiser from R. Brandenburg Motor Sales. The Brandenburg Co. offered to accept the present police cruiser, which was badly damaged in a collision recently, allowing $1,015.35 for it, and trading the new Chevrolet Tudor based on a price of $1,444.50, receiving $335.55 from the city in the transaction.

To Lease Parking Lot
Council also authorized City Manager Hill to enter into a lease with H. L. Conn, et al., for use of a parking lot on North Street, back of the Standard Oil Station, for $20 per month.

The lot will accommodate 30 automobiles and help relieve the downtown congestion. Parking is to be free, but a time limit on parking probably will be provided. The lot will be lighted at night. Mention also was made that the Will E. Dale lot immediately west of Paint Creek, and south of West Court Street, could be obtained on liberal terms, to help relieve the congestion.

Assistant to Farm Planner Assigned Here

Soil conservation for Fayette County farms will get more attention. This was indicated with the announcement today that Willard Herzy, 26, a recent graduate from Ohio State University, has been added to the staff of the farm planner's office here.

Herzy will be in training here with Francis Baker, farm planner for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Baker recently took over the soil conservation assignment here, replacing Robert Blosser, resigned.

Plans have been made to start Herzy on farm plans for Paint and Madison Township farms.

Since graduation from Ohio State University last June, Herzy has worked in Clark County in a capacity identical to that which he has here.

A former resident of Fulton County, Herzy holds his BS in soil conservation from the department of agriculture, OSU. During the war he served for 34 months with U. S. Army, a large part of which time was spent in Texas.

Herzy started his assignment here Tuesday. He will be here for several months. His aim is to be assigned as a farm planner in some county.

Coal Mine Strike

By order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, rail service by coal-burning locomotives was cut to 50 percent of normal for passenger trains and 75 percent for freight effective at midnight tomorrow. The railroads estimated they had an average 15-day supply of coal on hand.

Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois, with only six days' coal supplies left, ordered 9,000 men on a three-week furlough starting Friday.

All industry tightened its belt. More layoffs were in prospect. In Detroit, dwindling fuel supplies caused General Motors to cancel all plans for Saturday work and scheduled overtime.

Miners in the fields were generally quiet. They read of the collapse of negotiations in their morning newspapers or heard the news over their radios. They had no immediate comment.

Another outstanding talk was made by George Litton, head of the extension department of VPI in Blacksburg, Va. A well-known writer and an authority on sheep, Litton spoke on the sheep in his native state of Virginia.

Litton spoke of the need for increasing sheep operations in order to realize a quick return from their investments. He gave his audience several good points for sheep raising.

Litton is the secretary and superintendent of the famous Eastern Stud Ram Show and Sale, held at Staunton, Va., each June. He developed the show from a small crossroads affair into a major national activity in the sheep world.

Bringing Truth Home To Our Own Backyard

How is it possible to bring home to the average citizen the unsoundness of the federal government's deficit financing and spendthrift policy.

One of the best illustrations of reducing this proposition to something the ordinary man or woman in the street can understand, is found in a recent editorial in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, an independent newspaper, under the heading "This Is Not Fiction". It is reprinted below as follows:

Will the reader pretend that he has an obscure neighbor by the name of Harry Truman? And will he pretend that Neighbor Truman has decided he must borrow money, a decision which many of us ordinary folks have reached at times in the tempestuous course of life?

Neighbor Truman, we're going to pretend, steps into the bank to apply for the loan, and we're going to have the privilege of observing the transaction.

"I want to borrow $500," says our neighbor. (Now most will anticipate the next few questions, having been through it.)

"Do you have any debts at the present time?" the banker inquires.

"Yes," says our neighbor. "I owe the bank at this moment about $25,800."

"What is your annual income, Mr. Truman?"

"I have take-home pay amounting to $3,750 a year," says he.

"Hmhmhm," the banker hmms. He at once is suspicious of the client's ability to pay the old debt without $500 more added. And aren't his eavesdropping neighbors suspicious, too?

But the banker gives allowance for unforeseen circumstance. So he asks Mr. Truman, "Do you think you will be able to save a large portion of your income this year and each succeeding year to reduce your indebtedness?"

"Oh, no," Neighbor Truman replies to the surprise of the banker, and the neighbors listening in. "My necessary living expenses this year will be $4,250. I'll be forced to spend more than I earn."

"Pardon me," the startled banker interjects. "Do you mean that, owing already an amount that constitutes seven times what you'll take in during a year, you're going to spend more than you earn?"

"That's right," says Neighbor Truman. "You see I must provide tuition at private schools for my children. I must help a poor relative set up a new business in which he's going to lose money for a long time to come."

"Just what kind of business is that relative going to sink your money in?" the incredulous banker asks.

"Why," says Mr. Truman, "he's got a wonderful humanitarian idea. He's going to sell milk to the Hottentots at a price they can afford to pay."

"But just those things won't eat up your whole income this year, will they?"

"No, but that isn't all," says Mr. Truman. "I am building security for my children by putting price supports under them. My boys sell newspapers to the neighbors at a nickel apiece, but I give them an extra nickel. My daughters make lamp shades which they sell for $5, but I don't think that's a fair price, so I give an extra $2 for each one they sell. Besides, my wife wants a television set."

The banker now steps aside to get his breath. Here's a fellow who owes more than he can ever repay if he lives frugally below his income seeking to borrow still more, and at the same time boldly proclaiming his intention of carrying out fantastic money-spending schemes.

What will the banker do?
Will he lend the new money? It's silly even to ask the question.

This scene is not fiction. It constitutes a faithful reproduction of the program set forth in regal solemnity by President of the United States Harry S. Truman. Multiply all figures by 10 million and you have the Truman budget, his plan of government, the government's income, and the government's debt.

In this case Congress is the banker. If it makes the loan, Borrower Truman's note will have to be signed by the taxpayers, which is to say by all the people. Who, in his right mind, would voluntarily sign the note of such a profligate spender?

Diet and Health Allergy Suspected Disorder Causes

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOME children seem to have one cold after another, with constant sniffing, sneezing, and nosebleeding, in season and out. Many times in the past, worried parents have been advised that only the removal of tonsils and adenoids will banish the trouble.

According to Dr. Clein of Seattle, the source of nasal symptoms in many such children is oversensitivity or allergy. Hence, he thinks operation for the removal of tonsils and adenoids inadvisable in many cases. In the first place, they are very likely to grow back again in the allergic child. In the second, proper treatment for the allergy usually results in the shrinking of the tonsils and adenoids. If it does not, an operation can still be carried out.

Nose and Throat

Allergy or oversensitivity affecting the nose and throat in children usually shows itself by frequent colds, as a rule without fever. The child keeps his mouth open most of the time and, especially, at night. These children also seem to sniffle and blow the nose repeatedly, particularly in the morning and at night.

Allergy may also show itself in colds, accompanied by coughing or continued clearing of the throat. These children are likely to have a deep, hard, dry cough which is made worse by exercise or fatigue, and which is apt to become worse at night.

(Copyright, 1950, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Wheezing and attacks of croup, as well as slight fever occurring for months, are other symptoms of allergy affecting the nose and throat.

Unsuccessful Operation

After an unsuccessful operation for the removal of tonsils and adenoids, the regrowth of adenoids is more common than the regrowth of the tonsils. In such cases, the most common complaint is mouth breathing.

Removal of the tonsils and adenoids in children of this type during the hay fever season may make the hay fever worse or start attacks of asthma.

Thus, before the tonsils are removed in a child, it is important to make sure that such an allergy is not present.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: I have a little girl two and one-half years. When she passes her urine she cries as though it hurts her. Is that caused by an acid stomach?

Answer: It is possible that the child's trouble is due to inflammation of the bladder, or to an infection of the pelvis of the kidney. The latter condition is known as pyelitis. The most common cause is an infection of the lining of the external opening of the birth canal, a common and not especially serious condition, present in many young girls.

A physical examination, as well as an analysis of the urine, should be made to determine the cause of the disturbance; then proper treatment can be started.

It is not due to acid stomach.

Opposition To Postal Reforms

By George E. Sokolsky

The post office has taken a most antagonistic attitude toward the Hoover report which is aimed at making it a business institution, paying, if possible, for itself. Thus far, for only real response of the postmaster general has been to ask for more money, seeking to increase the income of that office by an estimated $130,000,000, mostly by raising the postal rates on second class mail, including magazines.

The minority report of the committee on post office and civil service was signed by Congressmen Harold C. Hagen, Usher L. Burdick, Cardner R. Withrow, H. R. Gross, Robert J. Corbett, Edward H. Jensen. They say of H. R. 2945, the bill that would raise these rates:

"The measure as reported, is inconsistent, discriminatory, and will create undue hardship to the American public to large labor groups, and to thousands of companies, business firms and industries which are heavy users of the mails. The rates proposed, if enacted, will cause widespread unemployment, will cripple many businesses, and will disrupt the financial arrangements of some of our most worthy charities."

The Hoover report definitely shows that the post office is antiquated and inefficient. It also shows that because of faulty bookkeeping practices, the post office cannot and actually does not know what it is doing. It lacks an adequate method of cost accounting, therefore, the demand for an increase of rates only demonstrates an inability to face problems realistically.

The minority report indicates this in its recommendations:

Escaped Convict Safe in Michigan

LANSING, Feb. 9—(P)—Governor Williams refused today to permit the return to Ohio of Forest Swoveland of Walled Lake, who escaped from a prison farm there nearly 10 years ago.

Williams held that Swoveland, a factory worker, had maintained a record as a "hard-working and law-abiding citizen of Michigan" for the past nine years and did not deserve re-imprisonment. He noted that Swoveland is the sole support of a wife and four children who probably would become public charges if he were to be extradited.

"(A) Increase efficiency in the post office department before using the deficit as a basis for setting rates.
"(B) Provide for the setting of rates for special services by the post office department administratively as recommended by the Hoover commission report.
"(C) Consider the rates for first-, second-, third-, and fourth-class mail as separate units so that a more careful study can be made of the problems involved by the rate structure recommended.
"(D) Give the American public an opportunity to be heard on the bill in its present form, which differs so radically from the bill as introduced and upon which testimony was taken.
"(E) Reorganize the post office department's cost-accounting system to include such important intangible considerations as relative priority, degree of preference, and economy value of the several classes of service, which are essential if it is to be used as a tool in conjunction with all of the other factors that go into the operation of the postal establishment. The cost-accounting system should not be used as an absolute guide for establishment of postal rates.
"(F) The results and facts, which will become available for appraisal and consideration, of the present committee investigation of the inadequacy of mail service by reason of the abandonment of many branch railroad lines throughout the country."

Whether the rates are too low, adequate or too high can only be determined by cost accounting after the elimination of waste and inefficiency. If the rates are inadequate, it needs to be ascertained precisely where the loss is.

While it cannot be expected that the post office will take a commercial view of costs, it needs nevertheless to be determined whether throwing the full burden of the loss in revenue on newspapers and magazines will best serve the United States. The Hoover report showed that the post office could reduce its expenditures by about $140,000,000; yet the post office's answer to this has been not to improve its efficiency but to demand an additional $130,000,000. That is political cynicism gone hog wild, which apparently is the tone of the times.

A department which provides, under acts of Congress, costly subsidies cannot justify loading onto some industries the cost of subsidizing others. Of course, the fault does not rest entirely with the post office which is bound by acts of Congress. But the post office avoids constructive proposals to Congress, fearful that it will tread on political toes. Therefore, it kites and pyramids, which in business are regarded not only as faulty but unethical practices.

Before Congress permits the raising of any rates, the post office should be made into a modern, efficient, businesslike organization. Then, if it still operates at a loss, rates should be revised on a basis of sound business.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

See where a bank in Denver is putting in left-handed checkbooks. They figure their southpaw depositors deserve just as much consideration as the right handers.

Time was when it was believed that left-handed people had no right to exist at all. If a youngster showed signs of using his left hand, his parents were supposed to break him of the habit—to force him to use his right.

But today most doctors will tell you that changing a child's natural left-handed tendency usually causes more harm than good.

Stammering and other nervous disorders often get their start that way with children.

From where I sit, if a man wants to use his left hand—that's his business. It's not such a good idea to make anyone do things our way, just because we think it's right. Personally, I think a mellow glass of beer is the finest beverage on earth. If you happen to prefer a Coke—why, go to it! Only leave me the same freedom of choice, won't you?

Taking All the Fun Out of War

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(P)—The push-button war of the future may never come for a very simple reason—it doesn't hold much prospect for fun.

Wars in the past have offered exciting change from the humdrum of peace to a large part of the population.

The terror, boredom and danger of the front lines affected only a small proportion of the people. The civilians at home, worried by fear of death, found the annoyances of rationing and higher taxes more

Hal Boyle than made up for their enlarge sense of self-importance.

They were caught up by a thrilling feeling of unity that carried them out of their ordinary small frustrations. The factory worker became "the soldier behind the soldier at the front." Women found an escape from the petty world of household chores. They found they could hold a riveting machine as well as the next guy, and war opened to them a whole new round of social activities with a purpose—helping sell bonds, entertain at USO clubs, collect blood, roll bandages.

Yes, war made everybody feel useful and necessary. And few saw the blood on the battlefields far away.

Recent wars have been less and less awarding, however, for the men who actually carry the guns. In the old days victorious warriors looted towns and took their pick of the enemy's pretty womenfolk.

I wouldn't say this didn't happen on occasion in the last World War, but it was the exception rather than the rule. Our doughboys used to joke that the last thing the retreating Nazis did before pulling out of one of their cities was to stick up a sign saying: "off limits to all allied troops."

And on a national scale victory has only brought more responsibility. As soon as you quit kicking a foe, you have to start lending him money, shipping him food, and rebuilding his homeland.

It seems to me that the development of the hydrogen bomb has squeezed the last small ounce of fun out of war.

We are in the twilight of the man-flown bomber and the finer-pulled rifle trigger. Military leaders warn we haven't reached the push button stage of war yet, but we will within 25 years.

Of what avail will bravery be then? It won't take a brave man to point an H-bomb at the enemy and send it whirling away in a pilotless rocket. The soldiers will be technicians, the generals will command armies of machines instead of men.

And what fun will there be for the civilian population? None. War will become a matter of population endurance, as each side waits for its cities to disappear. A great city is the harvest of millions of men over hundreds of years. Why burn up that long gain of culture and concrete in one tremendous flash of million-degree hydrogen heat?

If nations think this over—and there are signs they will—the H-bomb may turn out to be a great blessing. It will surely never be dropped if everybody realizes that war is no longer fun for anybody, or profitable for anybody, but death or ruin for practically all.

Then peace can become the pleasant, neighborly thing it ought to be. It could even turn out to be fun.

The Nation Today

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
(For James Marlow)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(P)—Many American cities—perhaps your town is one of them—would be more prosperous and livable if their zoning regulations were up to date.

So say city planning experts who made a study of the zoning problem for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Zoning pointers by these experts are contained in a 44-page booklet just issued by the Chamber.

Zoning regulations desirable some years ago are now "sadly out of date," the experts say, largely because of great changes in the commercial and residential setups of many cities during the past 20 to 30 years.

Early zoning ordinances set apart long stretches of a city's main streets for business use only. Now many business enterprises have moved to outlying locations, and the old commercial zone is in the wrong location for merchandising and transportation.

Numerous manufacturing concerns have abandoned the multi-story factory for the one-floor production line. As a result more land is needed for the factory and for off-street parking and loading.

The city planners point out that when this land is not available under zone regulations, industry moves out. Result: The community loses in tax revenues and in its ability to provide employment for its citizens.

A long-time trend to smaller families, together with higher costs of living and construction, have caused many families to seek smaller quarters and cheaper rental housing. The effect on zoning requirements has been a demand for garden apartments with more open space, properly located with relation to elevator apartments and single family dwellings.

The so-called "self-sufficient" neighborhood development is increasingly regarded as desirable for present-day living. This includes various types of uses such as shopping center, garden apartments and two-family houses as well as single-family dwellings.

As a result there is need for zoning to encourage this type of development and to see that it is properly directed for the welfare of the community as a whole.

Another tough zoning problem in many cities is parking in the central districts. The experts suggest as approaches to this problem:

1. More intensive use of existing parking space and of public transportation.
2. Encouragement of the commercial parking industry.
3. Cooperative efforts by groups of business men and property owners to establish more parking facilities.
4. Formation of municipal parking agencies with power to assemble land and negotiate for construction and operation of parking facilities.
5. Direct municipal action financed by parking meter receipts,

Russian People Key

sands of people in all walks of life have at some time sustained some deep personal hurt from the police regime. Each new purge or 'ideological campaign' adds new contingents of malcontents.

"While all open criticism of the regime is effectively prevented and the ears and eyes of the MVD (secret police) are omnipresent, such is human nature that every individual has at least one person he fully trusts, and thus an endless chain extends, even though it lacks organized form."

Stevens divides today's Russians into three groups: those about 25 or under, youngsters who grew up under Stalin and are susceptible to indoctrination; those between 25 and 35, who he says show gradual frustration in the police state, and those over 35, whose disillusionment breeds either cynical resignation or intense inner rebellion.

Revolt A Possibility

The cynics are among the party staff, the majority of the citizenry are apathetic, "but many at the least sign of hope would gravitate toward the third (rebellion)," the writer reports.

There are two kinds of Soviet citizen. The elite are the select group of party members, risen from 2,000,000 after the purge of the thirties to more than 5,000,000 now, with the recruitment of youngsters who grew up under Stalin. The other Soviet citizen is a member of the great conglomerate mass of Russian peoples.

Of the elite, the upper crust includes the ruling Politburo, the military leaders, factory directors, celebrities of letters and the stage and screen and the like. Many of them have their dachas—country houses—in what is called the "forbidden zone" guarded constantly by the MVD.

"These privileged groups comprise the cream of Soviet society," writes Stevens. "Not that the Russians have even a remote counterpart of western social life. x x x

"For leading citizens of a revolutionary new society, their behavior patterns are surprisingly conservative and conventional. Indeed, they are more restricted and inhibited than their counterparts in western 'Bourgeois' countries."

Upper Crust Well Fed
This upper crust is well fed, well paid, well housed. They live well, if nervously, under the constant vigilance of the secret police who watch both them and those who would dare approach them. Now, how about the other side? Stevens describes it thus:

So far as the peasant is concerned, the Soviet government has evolved techniques of squeezing him far more thoroughly than Czarist landlords did. Save in a few pampered areas, "the peasant has yet to reap most of the benefits enjoyed by the urban intellectual and working class. The money the peasantry collected from high food obligations to the state in kind and money have been upped from year to year.

revenue bonds, benefit district assessments and from general funds of the city.

Board and Room

By Gene Ahern

Consumer goods abundant in the cities have yet to reach most rural areas, and prices to the peasant are higher."

And what of labor?
"The Serflike Bondage of the 'free' Soviet citizen to his job is one element of an unrelaxing economic stranglehold upon the masses. Equally important is the total state control of the production of food and consumer goods, a control constantly used to coerce and cajole, reward and punish, in the interests of the Communist party line."

Under this Soviet system the worker is bound to his job "as fast as ever a galley slave was chained to his oar." Under the eye of the MVD vast forced labor groups operate in important state enterprises. Use of female labor is on a scale unparalleled in any other modern economy, and the women have equality in the toughest of manual labor.

The trade unions have nothing in common with trade unionism as the west knows it. Provisions supposedly safeguarding workers, says Stevens, have "about as much meaning and application as the civil liberties guaranteed in the Soviet constitution." The strike weapon is utterly outlawed, and the real purpose of the trade union is to aid the government in getting as much labor as humanly possible out of Soviet workers.

"Under the Soviet system, the people have become the property of the state, along with land,

Without Painful Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions. If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. individual thinks, reads, eats, wears, where he lives, where and how he works, whom he can marry.

The state assumes the right of calling him for a third degree, of searching his home, or of completely shutting him up by the simple expedient of arrest and confinement, with no appeal.

Citizen Is Trapped

In this state the Soviet citizen is trapped, and "the methods of the police state are nowhere so revealed as in the treatment of Soviet citizens who apply for permission to go abroad," Stevens says.

The story of the Soviet wives of foreigners is well known. Except for the lucky few who got out during the war and the immediate postwar honeymoon period between east and west, all of them are still there. The Soviet wife of a foreigner is nagged and pressed to a degree that few have the moral stamina to resist. Sooner or later most file for divorce. The foreigner in the Soviet Union is constantly shadowed by the MVD, none more than the foreign diplomats. The foreign press is subject to arbitrary and capricious censorship from which there is no appeal. Often, writes

School Custodian Killed As He Puts Up Safety Marker

VANDALIA, Feb. 9—(P)—Lowell W. Hunt, 64, liked his job as custodian at the Butler Township High School, with one exception.

He dreaded the daily chore of placing two traffic safety markers in the middle of U. S. Route 40, the national highway.

"The traffic is awfully heavy," he explained to his wife Cecelia recently.

"But the markers — picturing

Stevens, censors deliberately distort the meaning of a correspondent's cables. It is commonly assumed that the correspondent's telephone is connected to a central listening post. Even his servants often spy upon him.

"The most embittered, disillusioned members of the Moscow diplomatic colony," Stevens says, "invariably are those who first came full of sympathy and admiration for the Soviet Union, full of friendly eagerness to get to know the country and its people."

DAR Meeting Highlighted By Lovely Colonial Tea

The William Horner Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution enjoyed a delightful "Colonial Tea" on Wednesday afternoon at the Jeffersonville Methodist Church, following the regular February meeting.

The regent, Mrs. G. D. Van Gundy, presided, opening with the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag, led by the flag chairman, and the singing of one verse of the national anthem.

The chapter voted to send the usual donation to the Valley Forge Project. Clothing in the amount of $225 was reported as sent to the Kate Duncan Smith School. Another box is being prepared to be sent to the adopted boy at Tamassie School.

The program consisted of a portrayal of "Midnight Fantasy" given by Miss Beverly Coil and Miss Shirley Sharratt, who represented the girl of 1950 and 1750, respectively. This was directed by their expression instructor, Mrs. Leland Stevens.

A display of antiques arranged on two tables were admired by the guests before tea was served in the church parlor from a table exquisitely appointed, carrying out a red, white and blue color scheme in the floral adornments and tapers which made up the patriotic theme with antique crystal adding to the beauty.

Mrs. Van Gundy, regent, and Mrs. Harold Zimmerman, vice regent, in colonial costumes, presided at either end of the table. Soft music added to the pleasure of the social hour, with Miss Louise Fults at the organ.

Sugar Grove W.C.T.U. Meets With Mrs. Bush

Mrs. Orville Bush was a gracious hostess Wednesday afternoon, when she extended the hospitality of her spacious home to the members and guests of the Sugar Grove W.C.T.U. for the regular February meeting. The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Frank E. Haines who read a portion of the Scripture, adding a few well chosen remarks and closing with prayer.

During the business session presided over by Mrs. Earl Scott, president, the usual reports were read and approved. Announcement was made of the open meeting to be held by the Jeffersonville W.C.T.U. in the Methodist Church at Jeffersonville, Friday, February 10 beginning with a covered dish luncheon at 12 noon. A special program has been planned for the afternoon with Mrs. Esther M. Madsen, state president of the Ohio W.C.T.U. as guest speaker.

A cordial invitation is being extended to all members of the W.C.T.U. and friends interested in the cause of temperance to attend. The program for the afternoon was under the direction of Miss Blanche Roberts was opened with a brief sketch on "The Life of Frances Willard" by Mrs. Beryl Cavinee.

Other readings were: "A Grain of Mustard Seed", by Mrs. Lydia Smith; "Hotels and Vandalism" by Mrs. Leo Baughn; "Let Us Get Into Greater Action", Mrs. Clarence Campbell.

"Thirst" by Mrs. Ralph Hays revealed, "That beer is assuming an even greater place in our national life is evidenced" when the New York City School Board of Education voted to add a class to its evening high school on how to brew beer yet the teaching of religion in any form is banned in many public schools.

Mrs. Scott read three short articles entitled "Who Pays the Tax" "75,000 Worth of Marijuana" and "High Car Toll Laid to Drunken Youths."

A general discussion at the end of the program created much interest and thought provocation. The meeting closed with the repeating of the benediction in unison.

During the social hour that followed the hostess assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Bush served tempting refreshments.

Mrs. Anna Glasgow and Mrs. Kenneth Bush were included as guest with the members.

Cecilian Members Present Instrumental Music Program At Home of Mrs. Loudner

The Cecilians met in regular session Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Andrew Loudner Jr., and the spacious living rooms of Mrs. Loudner's home were decorated in red, white and blue, the color scheme carried out in flowers crystal and pottery bowls, and candles in crystal holders and candelabra.

The president Mrs. Harry Craig, called the meeting to order and conducted a short business session, during which several guests were introduced and welcomed and a past president, Mrs. Mary G. Burgett of Fairborn was among the guests.

The program chairman, Mrs. Charles Sheridan, presented Mrs. Charles Hire, who gave a concise review of the subject of "Chamber Music," the stringed instruments, and the outstanding composers who have created music in that field.

Of "Chamber Music" Mrs. Hire gave the following definition: "All music for combinations of instruments smaller than an orchestra is called chamber music."

Originally it meant the kind of music written to be played in a salon, in distinction to music written for the church or the theater, and although it has come to be played in the concert hall, its range is still limited to music suitable for rooms of moderate size, and it is usually played by not more than one instrument to a part.

The trio, quartet and quintet constitute the most usual chamber music combinations in use at the present time, and some of the world's greatest music has been written for these combinations.

Composers of this great music include: Haydn, who strove to combine only instruments of equivalent musical capacity; Beethoven, who regarded the string quartet as the purest of all musical forms; Schubert, who wrote some of his finest things as chamber music works; and Mozart, Schumann, Brahms, Franck, Dvorak, Debussy, Ravel, and Schoenberg. The interest in chamber music, pointed out by Mrs. Hire, lies in the clear sonority of the various instruments as they blend together or answer one another in dialogue or repartee, and strength of whole due to the equal importance of each part.

She further stated the arresting democratic principle of chamber music, thus: "No one player is able to subordinate his playing to the general good of the whole."

Mrs. Hire presented the players of the evening:

First violin, corresponding to the soprano in vocal music: Mrs. Otis Core second and third violins, "alto" in the ensemble: Mrs. Charles Sheridan and Miss Eleanor Leiter.

Viola, or tenor: Mrs. John P. Cace, cello, providing the foundation tones: Mrs. Robert Parrett.

This group played a program of chamber music, including: Grieg's, "Two melodies for string orchestra" known as "Heartwounds" and "The Last Spring;"

To File War Claims Here

Bernard Witherspoon, in charge of Fayette County Soldiers Relief Commission work in Fayette County, calls attention of veterans to the fact that those entitled to property loss and personal injury compensation must file by March 2.

Property loss or personal injury claims arising out of World War II will be subject to the report which the War Claims Commission will make to the president to be submitted to Congress. Information is now being gathered for the report by means of two special questionnaires which may be filled out by individuals, organizations, or businesses suffering such losses or injuries.

The questionnaires prepared by the War Claims Commission are available to Ohio War Veterans from the Soldiers' Claims Division, Adjutant General's Department, State House, Columbus, from Veterans Administration offices; from County Soldiers' Relief Commissions in each of the 88 counties of the state; as well as from the War Claims Commission, Washington 25, D. ## With a Buckeye in Congress

Presidential Election Change Seen as Disadvantage to GOP

By CLARENCE J. BROWN

President Truman's decision last week that the United States should proceed with the development of the hydrogen bomb has created tremendous interest everywhere. Scientists insist the hydrogen bomb would be the most destructive weapon ever devised by the mind of man -- approximately 1,000 times more deadly than the atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima. It is generally agreed the president could reach no other decision. Russia is already at work on the hydrogen bomb problem. With America also possessing hydrogen bombs, the fear of retaliation might prevent a sneak attack or future war. It will require at least a year and several hundred million dollars to perfect the new bomb.

By a vote of 64 to 27 -- more than the required two to one majority -- the Senate adopted the Lodge-Gossett resolution, providing that an amendment to the Constitution, to change the method of casting and counting votes in have their completed questionnaires in the hands of the War Claims Commission by March 2, 1950."

Haines also emphasized, "that the questionnaires are not claims themselves, but the information obtained from them will serve as the basis for recommendations for amendments to the present law. The War Claims Commission has no authority at this time to accept personal injury or property loss claims, or claims from American civilians interned in Europe or on the mainland of Asia," he added.

the Electoral College for the election of the president, be submitted to the states for ratification. If the House should also approve the resolution, it will be submitted to the Legislatures of the 48 states and will become effective if three-fourths -- or 36 -- ratify it. Under the present constitutional provision, each state casts its total electoral vote for the presidential candidate receiving the highest popular vote in the state. Each state has one electoral vote for each senator and member of the House representing it in Congress.

Under the Lodge-Gossett proposal the electoral vote of each state would be divided and counted in the Electoral College on a percentage basis according to the proportion of the popular vote received by each presidential candidate in the state. Supporters of the amendment claim this new arrangement would be more representative of the will of the people, and would help develop a two-party system in the south. Opponents insist it would give the solid Democratic states of the south a great advantage in voting power in the Electoral College and would practically nullify the influence of many of the larger states in the selection of a president. In both 1944 and 1948 the net difference between the Democratic and Republican candidates in Ohio's electoral votes, under the new proposed system, would have been less than 1/10th of a vote, while Mississippi's net difference would have been 9 votes. Thus Mississippi would have had 90 times as much power and influence in the Electoral College as Ohio, if the proposed amendment had been in effect in 1944 and 1948.

It now appears rather certain wartime excise taxes will be materially reduced soon, but it is doubtful other taxes will be increased. The Truman administration, which wants over-all corporation taxes increased by a billion a year, is now suggesting taxes on corporation earnings below $19,000 annually actually be reduced a bit, while corporation taxes on incomes above that amount be increased by about 10 percent.

The American Legion has come out in open opposition to the continuation of the present draft law. Instead, that organization wants legislation enacted to put a program of universal military training into effect. Previous Congresses have refused to consider any universal military training proposal, and it appears unlikely the present Congress will authorize one.

The federal government is still trying to get rid of its surplus potatoes by giving them away free to the school lunch program, public and charitable institutions, relief agencies, and striking coal miners. The potatoes are also offered for export sale at one cent per 100 lb. bag. Now some federal officials are proposing that 50 million bushels, $65,500,000 worth, of surplus potatoes be destroyed -- the greatest destruction of food in all history.

The steady decline in farm prices is giving many members of Congress grave concern. Reports are reaching Washington that eggs are selling as low as 20 cents a dozen and hogs as low as 12 cents per pound in many rural sections. Banks in country towns show a recent heavy loss in deposits, while small town merchants, implement dealers, and others are complaining of a sharp drop in volume of sales.

Dr. James Shera Montgomery, for nearly 30 years chaplain of the House of Representatives and spiritual advisor to congressmen and their families, ended his active service on January 31. The day before his retirement the House took the unusual action of electing him as chaplain Emeritus for life -- the first in the nation's history. The House also elected Rev. ## FFA Chapter Winner of Gold Medal

Members of the newly formed Washington C. H. chapter of the Future Farmers of America had cause to boast.

They received word Wednesday that they received a gold medal (the top award) in a parliamentary procedure competition, held for 49 teams from seven counties in Ohio at Bainbridge (Ross County).

Six teams out of the group emerged with gold medals. The FFA chapter at Jeffersonville won a silver medal. Eight silver medals were awarded and five bronze medals.

Members of the Washington C. H. FFA chapter who participated in the meet included Jerry Dray, president; Dick Hughes, vice president; Norman Merritt, secretary; Hugh Wilson, treasurer; Donald Howard, sentinel; Ralph Coil, student advisor; Herman Rodgers, Bill Arnold, Bob Highfield, Norman Wilson and Joe Burke.

Each team consisted of ten members, with two serving as quizzers. Quizzers from Washington ten C. H. included Jerry Dray and Joe Burke.

Three members of each team also served as chairmen during the 20-minute period of competition.

Word that the FFA chapter here was among the top performers in the competition was cheered in young farmer circles here. This achievement added to the recent drive by the club against pests has given the group a good start in activities here.

Boys Unimpressed By Tall Buildings

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 —(AP)—Six young farmers visiting here don't find these New York skyscrapers so very tall.

The boys are national officers of the Future Farmers of America, an organization of 280,000 farm boys studying agriculture. They are making a 20-day tour of cities to visit donors to the organization's foundation.

John Farrar, director of information for the group, said, "maybe they read too many fabulous stories or expected too much" of New York. "At any rate the fellow kind of thought the buildings would be much higher. They've seen skyscrapers in other cities that were pretty tall and they expected more height here."

Pastor Criticizes Hard Church Seats

DAYTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—The way of the transgressor should be hard, not the seats of the religious, a Dayton minister commented today.

The Rev. Dr. James Thomas, pastor of the South Park Methodist Church, criticized a stand taken by Ohio pastors last week at their annual convention. They voted, 47 to 37 percent, for hard pews. Three percent were undecided.

"Why is it," asked Dr. Thomas, "that so many church people, as soon as something is comfortable or has some fun in it, begin im-

German Youth Political Pawn

Nazi Heritage Seen In Russian Zone

By KARL HEINZ SCHWAB
BERLIN --(AP) --East Germany's Free German Youth organization (FDJ) is on the march, with drums and trumpets

"For peace," say its Communist leaders.

"For Communist domination," charge anti-Communists.

"It looks too much like the Hitler Youth," is another frequent argument against it.

Outwardly, at least, it actually resembles the Hitler Youth in many ways. The FDJ is the only youth organization permitted in the Soviet zone, just as the Hitler Youth was in Nazi Germany.

Torchlight parades, drums and trumpets were indispensable for the Hitler Youth. Four years after the defeat of the Nazi Reich, the Communist Free German Youth adopted these requisites.

The Hitler Youth wore brown shirts. FDJ are blue.

This was too much even for the Communist-edited east Berlin weekly, Ullenspiegel. It reprimanded the free German Youth for marching, drumming and trumpeting "just as the Hitler Fascists did."

"Hitler didn't invent those things," retorted the FDJ.

Its executive council declared that "today youth must be won for the fight for peace with all available means," including these Hitler Youth customs.

"True, they were abused in the past by reactionaries of all shades," it admitted. "But the drums and trumpets of the Free German Youth are the bitterest enemies of reaction, because they are the drums and trumpets of peace."

But these very drums and trumpets of peace were used by an FDJ group at Leipzig to break up Catholic church services. The group marched around a church making so much noise that the mass had to be broken off.

The "peace" drums and trumpets also intone marches praising heroes of the Red Army. Their peace fanfare precedes speeches calling on FDJ members to help defend the Communist-made "democratic order" against "western war mongers." FDJ leaders have publicly pledged themselves to do so "with the weapon in our hands" in the ranks of the east zone "People's Police" army.

They were the first to storm the Berlin city hall on Sept. 6, 1948, and drive out the duly elected representatives of the Berlin population. They were in action as strike breakers during the six-weeks walkout of West Berlin's anti-Communist railway workers--with rocks and wooden clubs against strikers.

Without FDJ membership card there's hardly a chance of being admitted to high school, university or administrative jobs. There are no sports without the FDJ. The "Democratic Sports Movement" of Communist-ruled East Germany is supervised by the Free German Youth and the Communist trade union federation, FDGB.

Willard Bitzer To Be Judge Of Big Dog Show in New York

Variety spices the life of Willard Bitzer.

A farmer by vocation, he has more avocation claiming his attention at one time than most people have in a lifetime.

Right now he is getting ready to go to New York City to judge the Associated Terrier Club show which opens Sunday in the Armory in the heart of the country's biggest city. Mrs. Bitzer, a school teacher at Bloomingburg, is to accompany him. They plan to leave Friday, making the trip by train.

Willard Bitzer

The Associated Terrier Club show is always held the day before the big Westminster Club show in Madison Square Garden.

Besides being an authority on dogs, Bitzer is a breeder of purebred Dorset sheep; he is president of the Fayette County Shepherd's Club and presided over its annual dinner meeting at the Country Club Wednesday night; he is a member of the new operating board for the Memorial Hospital now nearing completion; he is a breeder of purebred hogs and not so long ago raised show horses.

His interest in dogs started when he raised English bull terriers on his farm on the CCC Highway about four miles east of Washington C. H. That was several years ago.

During the heyday of the Bitzer Kennels, he sold terriers all over the country and won ribbons with them at major shows from Chicago east to the Atlantic coast.

Recognized Authority
Bitzer became a familiar figure at the dog shows and, through intensive study, he gained wide recognition as an authority.

He was called on to judge at some of the biggest shows. In 1941 he judged the bull terriers, Staffordshire terriers and Manchester terriers at the Chicago show and the Morris and Essex show, the largest dog show in America, held on the estate of Mrs. Rockefeller Dodge the next year. In 1943, he judged the Westminster Kennel Club show in Madison Square Garden.

The Associated Terrier show is theater groups and chess clubs are also controlled by the FDJ. Even old men with beards must obtain a Free German Youth license if they want to go fishing.

the only important bull terrier specialty show he had ever been called on to judge before.

But, in spite of the recognition he has received as a judge, Bitzer admits his greatest satisfaction was in raising bull terriers and showing them himself. Mrs. Bitzer has always been a partner in fact as well as in name in both raising and showing dogs.

They started raising terriers in 1912 and before their hobby--and it had its practical side in the sales--waned, dogs from their kennel had brought back ribbons and trophies from all of the major shows in the country. Several took down American Kennel Club championships.

The kennels are now deserted, but Wilzer Parade of Elegance, a handsome white bull terrier that won the championship of the Westminster show in New York in 1938 is still a member of the Bitzer household.

Faithful Reds Tasting Luxury

Swank Hotels Open To Hungry Workers

By ENDRE MARTON

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 9--(AP)--Hungary's workers and peasants are getting a taste of how "the other half" used to live.

Fashionable spas and luxury hotels--once within reach of the rich alone--have been thrown open by the government as free vacation havens for shop workers, high quota farmers and others whose efforts have pleased the state.

Here they may have maid service, summon bellhops and enjoy other "bourgeois" pleasures unknown to most of them, except through Hollywood movies.

Not only the big resorts, but also the former country estates of the onetime aristocracy and wealthy have been placed at the disposal of the faithful and deserving.

Ordinary workers may reap the benefits of the nationalized vacation system--for a small fee. Available to them are a number of state-owned resorts, at prices ranging from the equivalent of 33 cents to $1.25 a day--depending on their incomes.

Official statistics show that almost 300,000 workers and their families spent their holidays in 177 state-owned resorts last year. In addition, several hundred industrial workers spent two or three weeks vacation abroad in neighboring peoples' democracies which in turn sent their best workers to Hungary for a rest cure.

The government has decreed that athletic instructors and all sorts of sports equipment be placed at the disposal of the vacationing workers. Movies and other entertainment also are provided for them.

Children of workers also are included in the vacation program. The government says nearly 100,000 youngsters visited state resorts last year.

Here again preference is given to those who have done most for the state.

Szabó Nep, the official Communist newspaper explained recently: "First of all children of such people will take part who deserved this reward with their work done... those who have proved they are willing and able to work for our system, for the land of workers, will go..."

Hungarians who, because of their profession, do not belong to any trade union--have a rougher time of it.

Doctors, independent merchants and the dwindling remnants of the wealthy class must vacation in the few remaining private hotels where the accommodations are limited and the prices exorbitant.

Police Preach Safety

CHICAGO--(AP)--The newest Chicago police squad is known as the "briefcase brigade." There are eight officers in it. They pack up charts and statistics and go out and preach the gospel of traffic safety before church, school, club labor union and other groups. The missionary work is a phase of the city's campaign against motor vehicle deaths.

DISCUSSING ARRANGEMENTS for national convention of American ex-prisoners of war, to be held April 6-9 in El Paso, Tex., three former POWs who remained in service also indulge in chin-chopping over the $1 a day they will receive from the federal government for time spent in prison camps with substandard rations. ## Shocking Kissers Are Trailed; Teeth Can Pack Electric Shock

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK --Your teeth can pack a fair electric wallop. Two teeth can generate a current of half a volt or more, if they have different kinds of metal in them as fillings. When they meet, you might get a little shock. Or you can get a shock when a spoon or fork touches both teeth.

It has been known for years that fillings of different metals can set up electric current. How strong it can be has been measured by Dr. William Schriever, professor of physics at the University of Oklahoma, and Dr. Louis E. Diamond, biochemist in the university's school of medicine.

They made tests on 137 patients, under an Office of Naval Research project.

"It is remarkable that the fillings of some persons have electrical potential differences of over half a volt, and yet these persons apparently suffer no discomfort and apparently no ill effects," they told an American Chemical Society meeting.

The mouth battery is like the simple battery you can make by dipping a copper wire and an iron wire into a glass of salt water, and holding the two upper ends of the wires together. Current flows through the wires, and through the salt water, which is an electrolyte.

The saliva in the mouth and the fluid in the jawbone also can act as electrolytes and conduct an electric current.

"If two teeth are filled, one with gold and the other with silver amalgam, these fillings are in contact with the saliva at their exposed surfaces, and with the bone-fluid at the surfaces down in the teeth.

"Thus the gold and amalgam together with the saliva constitute one electric cell, and the gold and amalgam together with the bone-fluid constitute another electric cell. These cells tend to send electric current from the amalgam to the gold through both fluids."

Each cell generates an electrical pressure, and a current can flow between them even when there's no metallic connection made to the fillings.

Dr. Schriever and Dr. Diamond, using meters, measured the average normal electric currents flowing.

ing between various combinations of fillings. They found the most current produced by pairs of teeth with gold and amalgam fillings and the least between pairs both filled with gold.

Social Security Agent Will Be Here Feb. 23

Social security problems will have to be taken up with the agency's representative one day later here this month.

Joseph Etienne, who comes to Washington C. H. twice a month to answer questions and help work out problems with both employers and employees, said he would not be here again until Feb. 23.

His schedule calls for him to come to the Ohio Employment Service, 211 East Market Street, here the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month. He did not say why his second visit this month would be delayed one day. Etienne said that normally his days here are full from the time he arrives until he leaves.

Lions Net $250 From Minstrel Shows in Jeff

Money Goes into Club's Community Betterment Fund

Members of the Jeffersonville Lions Club realized approximately $250 (after federal taxes and other expenses) from their Minstrel, held Monday and Tuesday nights in the Jeff High School auditorium.

This was announced today by Clarence Stuckey, a member of the Jeff Lions and district governor of district 13-C.

Stuckey said the proceeds of the show will go into the Lion's community service fund.

A crowd estimated at more than 650 attended the two shows. Many of the first nighters liked the show so much that they returned for the wind-up performance Tuesday night.

A cast of 55, including the chorus of about 20 members, took part in the presentation.

End men included Dr. Robert Little, Nelson Baker, Carl Stackhouse, Bud Mason, Donald Russell and Kenneth Walters. Directing the show was Robert Creamer. The pianist was Norma Jean Wilt while the chorus was made up of Lions Club members.

Thanks were paid by the Lions to the many patrons who attended the shows and to the Jeff board of education for the use of the auditorium.

ARRESTED in attack slaying of Marion Lloyd, 13, George T. Hailey, 24, paroled convict, is held in custody by Sheriff J. A. ## School Lunch Cost to well over 1,300 Ohio schools and institutions receiving commodities also has the department stumped.

But the officials of the state's school lunch program admit the costs to the schools will be high. It cost about $14,000 in freight during the past six months to ship over 56,000 pounds of potatoes in Ohio. However, potatoes are the bulkiest commodity in the program.

Schools To Decide

Hilly said that the matter of transportation costs would be left up to each school board in the county system to decide for itself.

However, he said that the lunchrooms are in need of potatoes at the present time and the schools would probably pay the expense of bringing them here.

Potatoes have been shipped here by rail in the past Hilly said. He indicated, however, a truck can probably be used from now on to cut down expenses.

The schools here have used the city truck to bring in the free commodities from Columbus, with the expense being pro-rated to each school at the end of the year. The same procedure could probably be worked out on the potatoes, said Hilly.

Brown, like Hilly, had not yet been officially informed of the change that would require the schools to pay transportation charges.

But all seem agreed that the lunches, sold on non-profit basis, will probably cost the students a little more.

Price of Meat and Vegetables Up Slightly Above Last Week But Eggs Plentiful and Cheap

(By The Associated Press)

Many beef, pork and poultry items cost a little more in retail food stores this week, and prices of several chain store brands of coffee advanced two to four cents a pound.

Pascal celery, beets, cauliflower, good quality spinach and fresh strawberries, were available, also were marked up this week in most places as shipments dwindled.

Foods lower than last week-end were in the minority. Eggs were a penny or two a dozen cheaper in some stores as producers, distributors and the agriculture department launched a joint week-long egg promotion campaign today (Thursday).

It's to call public attention to the huge supply and resulting low prices—lowest since 1942.

Some smoked meat items, lettuce, carrots, onions, eggplant and peas about completed the list of foods lower priced, and even for these the markdowns were by no means unanimous.

Plenty Of Eggs—Cheap

The abundance of eggs is the result first of exceptionally large flocks, estimated to be about 6 per cent larger than last year, and second of record egg production per hen.

The bureau of agricultural economics reported that this rate of production per bird has moved upward every year since 1940. The December average was a record for the month for the U. S. as a whole, and for 38 individual states as well.

The poultry and egg national board said eggs at current prices are one of the lowest-priced protein foods in a per-pound basis (a dozen large eggs weighs about a pound and half). They're selling at 25 to 29 cents a pound in many parts of the country and 31 to 34 cents a pound in the larger eastern cities, the industry association said, adding:

"If every American would eat on an average about two dozen more eggs this year than last, taxpayers' money would not have to be spent on buying eggs under the support program—and the eggs would be nourishing the taxpayers instead of standing around in warehouses and caves."

The agriculture department, incidentally, announced this week it would continue supporting farmer prices for eggs through March at the current level—even though the government already has about $100,000,000 worth.

Coffee Climbs Slowly

The price increases this week for coffee were confined mostly to chain store bag-packed brands which moved up more slowly than the major vacuum bag-packed coffees late last year. It was only a matter of time, trade sources said, before the chains were forced to make upward adjustments in green coffee prices in November and December.

A meat analyst for the agriculture department in New York predicted the mild upswing in meat prices this week would be short-lived, consumers are developing more price resistance to the expensive ups lately, especially in beef items, he said.

"People are buying more top round steaks and steering away from porterhouse, and it's the same trend in roasts," he reported. "That swing in demand has been pushing the cheaper cuts a little higher, but as budget-minded shoppers then drift away from beef to proportionately less expensive pork or poultry, all beef prices should ease. The better grade beef will soon be more plentiful anyhow."

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week climbed one cent to $5.80 and was the highest since last Sept. 13. This also was the first week since mid-1948 that the index was higher than the year-previous figure: it compared with $5.66 a year ago. The figure represents the total wholesale cost of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

inspecting every hall, every classroom, every janitor's supplyroom. They also checked every gym, basement and auditorium."

But this thorough check of the physical plant of the schools here by the school experts represented only a small part of the total information needed before a report could be made.

At the request of the researchers, Brown began furnishing them with a variety of information as fast as it could be compiled.

Study Is Complex

An idea of the complexity of the study can be gained by looking at the information assembled by Brown for the research bureau.

They were given the early history of the community; the distribution of the population by ages; the residential growth, major industries and other community information; the school programs, including the elementary, secondary and high school curriculums.

The researchers also got basic data regarding the school plant (when the buildings were built, type of construction and so on.) They are also enabled to find out about the trends in school enrollment from the enrollment figures from 1940 through 1949-50; the ages of all boys and girls enrolled in school from 1940 on and the birthrate of the city and county from 1935 through 1949.

Census figures were also provided, from the population of 569 of the seventh census in 1850, to the 11,900 total estimated as of January 1, 1949 by the Chamber of Commerce and the Sales Management Magazine.

Even Tax Info Given

The researchers were also sent information on the bonded indebtedness of the school districts and municipalities from 1940 through 1949. Detailed breakdowns into debt, service and operating levies inside and outside the ten-mile levy were also furnished on the tax duplicate and tax rates from 1939 on.

Also given to the school experts was a distribution of the total tax rate among subdivisions in the alternate years from 1941 through 1949.

A school population map was also drawn up, spotting on it each elementary school student in the first six grades.

Another map, spotting each student in grades seven through the twelfth, was also furnished the bureau.

"The cost of the study will not exceed $2,000," said Brown. At the time the researchers were here, the estimated cost of the survey was to be between $1,500 and $2,000.

Unemployment Up But Was Expected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—

The number of job openings across the nation took a 1,609,000 dive last month and sent unemployment soaring to 4,480,000—highest since prewar September, 1941.

Although largely seasonal in character, reflecting the onset of winter, the development had the effect of putting out of work seven out of each 100 persons in the nation's labor force.

That left 56,947,000 civilian jobholders, plus another 1,408,000 in the armed forces, the census bureau said yesterday in a survey taken the second week of January.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer promptly pointed out that mid-winter January and February are always the worst months for job seekers.

Soviet Secrets Not So Secret

Germans Have Spies
In Russian Zone

By RICHARD O'REGAN
FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Many of the secret files of the Russian secret police in Germany aren't secret anymore. Germany's anti-communist Social Democratic Party (SPD) claims it knows a lot about matters the Russian MVD in Germany believes are safely under lock and key.

The Social Democrats say they have an underground spy system working in the Soviet zone that has penetrated most branches of the Russian administration and the east zone communist organization. The SPD's underground outfit is named the "Ostbureau," a recent SPD pamphlet disclosed.

"Those who work in the Ostbureau," the SPD said, "were members of the underground in (Hitler's) third Reich and are well versed in the rules of clandestine warfare."

"Among them are experts with intimate knowledge of Russian conditions and methods."

Willing Supporters
The SPD's Ostbureau claims it has found willing supporters in "all classes and all walks of life" in the Soviet zone.

"Today in the east zone, there is hardly a town, or a village, a street or a house where there are no observers working with the Ostbureau."

"They sit in the office of every socialist unity party (communist) official, in the anteroom of every Russian post service, and in the rooms in which the files of the MVD (Russian secret police) are kept up to date."

"They are at the railway stations through which the endless freight trains roll with reparations for Russia, they are in the Soviet industrial corporations, and they are at work everywhere in the Russian zone where German and democratic rights have to be preserved," the SPD says.

The SPD says that some Ostbureau workers who have invaluable sources of information "are forced to disappear occasionally and escape to the west."

"But there are ten new supporters of the Ostbureau to replace the one man who has had to make his getaway—and they are not exclusively Social Democrats either," the SPD claims.

The SPD has no organization apart from its Ostbureau in the Soviet zone. It has refused, as a bitter opponent of Bolshevism, to play politics with east zone communists.

"There are few things that the socialist unity party (communists), the Soviet military government, and the MVD have not tried in their fight against the Ostbureau," the SPD pamphlet said.

"But not once have they succeeded in infiltrating their agents into the Ostbureau, and although they manage to beat up a man or kidnap him occasionally, the organization of the Ostbureau remains untouched."

Ford Co. Factory To Leave Hamilton

Detroit, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Transfer of the Ford Motor Co. Hamilton, Ohio, operations to Monroe, Mich., will start in April. The move probably will be completed sometime in September.

Walter H. Simpson, Ford Motor Co. general manager of parts and equipment, said the move was decided upon because the Hamilton plant is inadequate for planned production schedules and cannot be economically expanded.

The manufacturing operations include wheel, coil springs and board production. Approximately 650 workers are employed at Hamilton.

On one of his journeys to Asia, Marco Polo learned the secrets of making water and milk ices and brought back the recipes to Italy in the latter part of the 13th century.

Bills Are Discussed For Letter Carriers

Washington C. H. letter carriers today have little better understanding of legislation pertaining to the post office and their own working conditions now pending in Congress.

Dorsey Garwood, the national state vice president of the Letter Carriers Association, came here from Dayton to tell them several bills either under consideration now or being drafted for introduction in the near future.

One of the bills discussed by Garwood had to do with war veterans going into the postal service and another concerned what is known as the uniform allowance for letter carriers.

Garwood addressed 17 members of the association here following a steak dinner at Anderson's Drive-In Restaurant. Seated at the tables were Postmaster W. Emmett Passmore, Henry D. Engle, Frank Boylan, Archie McCullough, Donald Mack, Eugene Burris, George Robinson, Earl Haggard, Carl Meriweather, E.

R. Witherspoon, Glen Yerian, Gordon Varney, Roy Thompson, Gordon Davis, J. O. Garringer, Robert Crooks and Jack Elliott. Before and during the dinner the post office personnel took advantage of the opportunity to "talk shop" and exchange views on their work.

They also lingered for a general discussion of the legislation Garwood had analyzed for them.

City Manager Plan Getting More Popular

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Seventy-nine American municipalities adopted the council-manager form of government during 1949, it is reported by the National Municipal League, clearing house of information for local civic groups. This brings the total number of places in which the city manager plan is in effect to 958.

The league predicted that, at the present rate, the council-manager plan will become the prevailing form of local government within the next decade.

Sept. 24, 1949 was New Year, 5710 in Israel, which has adopted the Jewish calendar.

JOHN WAYNE AND JOHN AGAR are shown under fire in the above scene from "Sands of Iwo Jima," which opens a three day run at the State Theater Sunday. The picture is a saga of America's fighting Marines who fought hardest when the going seemed most hopeless.

BLANTON CREAMO CHOSEN 5 TO 1 IN TASTE TEST

Choice of Yellow Quarters or Uncolored Pounds

Housewives will be interested to know Creamo Margarine's popularity has grown faster in the past few years than the combined average of all other brands. This is due to the fact that Creamo tastes better because it's made better.

In taste tests between Creamo and the most expensive type bread-spreads, participating school children chose Creamo Margarine 5 to 1.

Users say Creamo's smooth, rich flavor is so distinctively delicious, the first taste is noticeably more flavorful than ordinary spreads. Not only does Creamo taste better—it's more economical, too. The extra flavor goes so much farther than ordinary spreads.

"...they tell me 5 to 1 choose BLANTON CREAMO everytime."

Fireworks Ready for Wilmington, Bexley

Cage fans hereabouts are in for a couple of "hot" basketball games this weekend when Wilmington comes here Friday, followed by Bexley Saturday night.

The WHS Lions continued their practice drills Tuesday afternoon in preparation for the two games that might very well go into their win column.

Coach Steve Lewis is being a little harder on the boys for unnecessary fouling, drilling them in the art of playing tight defensive ball without the body contact.

The opposition has scored 189 points this season on foul shots—free throws given them by the Lions. This average 14.7 points per game. The Lions have dropped in 116 points on fouls in the last 13 games, for an average of 3.12 almost nine points a game.

Fast-break Adopted

Lewis also was working his offense from a fast break in practice sessions this week, so the WHS fans should see a speed up game if the boys keep their heads in the game coming up.

Ivan Blair looked pretty sharp in practice with his ballhandling and passing, especially on spotting teammates in the clear for a shot. But he was still "off" on his shots.

Ed Pensyl was hitting better than a .500 average on a play the Lions are perfecting, which frees him on the side. Pope also turned in a scrappy game and hit on a couple of set and push shots. Neff looked good under the basket.

Lewis is expecting a harder battle from the Hurricanes than in the last match, in which Wilmington played a wild game. On this side of the ledger, however, fans hope the Lions won't repeat another scoreless second quarter which almost lost a big lead to Wilmington last time.

The Lions should stand up well to the Bexley cagers, although the visitors bring a winning record here, nine victories and seven losses.

The Bexley boys notched their last win Tuesday night against Urbana by a 54-37 score. Bexley didn't come through with any outstanding scorers, three men getting eight points apiece.

So, if the Lions' pressing defense proves effective Saturday, who knows but the Bexley outfit may go home somewhat surprised. Or is this wishful thinking?

Coach Ron Quinn has been on the sicklist the past few days with the flu, but is expected to be up and around for the coming matches.

Bud Dawson and Jack Rettig showed up well in the scrimmage against the varsity Tuesday. Grillo also turned in a scrappy quarter.

The WHS Reserves will be meeting Wilmington and Bexley Reserves this weekend.

Tractorettes Lead In Ladies League

Apparently there's no stopping Kirk's Tractorettes in their merry romp in the Ladies League bowling at Bowland. They came through with another clean sweep in their Wednesday night match with the Mac Toolers.

But, Ruth's Beauticians, who have been giving them the most competition, also won all three games when they met the NCR girls. That kept them in the race for the top spot in the standing, but they were still at least two weeks away from the lead—if they got all the breaks.

The Paullin Motors quitted from Mt. Sterling turned in the third three-game win of the evening. They whitewashed the King-Kashers.

Heifrich's Markettes won two out of three from the Wade Shoes to break their tie for fourth place. That was the only split decision match of the evening.

Cubs in Semi-Finals By Beating McClain

The WHS Cubs ripped open a stubborn Greenfield McClain junior high Wednesday, 33-22, to move into the semi-finals of the SCO League tournament.

The Cubs will face the Chillicothe West Fifth School team at 2 P. M. Saturday in the McClain gym. If the Cubs win that one, they'll play for the championship the same night.

A new star was uncovered by the Cubs in the Greenfield game in Dawson, who cut the cords for six field goals and four fouls in registering 16 points.

The game was hard-fought as the teams battled to a 5-5 tie at the quarter. The Cubs edged ahead at halftime, 14-11, and got hotter as the game progressed.

Coach Fred Pierson's crew led by 25-19 when the final quarter opened and held McClain to just three points while dropping in eight themselves.

Whitley punched in eight points, while Milstead was ice cold, getting but one point on a free throw. Dawson was the man of the hour with his 16. He got ten points in the Cub slaughter of Buford.

Chillicothe West Fifth, the Cubs' opponent for Saturday, beat Buckskin, 44-19, in their first tourney game and whipped Bloomingburg in the quarter-finals.

The semi-finals will be played at 2 and 3 P. M. Saturday. The Cubs will keep warm, meanwhile, with a game at Wilmington, Thursday.

Fighter's Collapse Under Investigation

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9—(AP)—The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission called a hearing today in the sudden collapse of Harold Johnson during last night's fight with Jersey Joe Walcott.

The 22-year-old Philadelphia Negro heavyweight dropped to the canvas in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder at the arena—unable to continue because of a back injury.

Walcott, the Camden, N. J., Negro veteran who tried unsuccessfully three times to grab the world's heavyweight crown, was awarded a knockout victory.

John (Ox) DaGrosa, State Athletic Commissioner, said after examining Johnson in the ring and later at Presbyterian Hospital, he was convinced "the boy was in too much pain to go on fighting."

"I am sure that there was nothing irregular in the fight," DaGrosa said, "but just to be on the safe side, I'll talk it over with all concerned today."

The purses of both fighters were held up pending results of the hearing.

Baseball Offer Made to Janowicz

CLEVELAND, Feb. 9—(AP)—If Vic Janowicz of Ohio State wants to quit playing college football and try out for big league baseball, now's his chance. Laddie Placek, chief scout for the Cleveland Indians here, says he saw Janowicz playing third base at Elyria High School and is eager to sign him to a tribe contract.

Corn has been called the "most valuable plant in America."

Who'll Ride Citation Is Big Question Now

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 9—(AP)—The burning question around the race track today was whether Steve Brooks or Eddie Arcaro will ride Citation in the $50,000 San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita Saturday.

Last report from Trainer Jimmy Jones was that he hadn't decided which jockey will get the call for Big C. in the mile and one-eighth stake, first major step in Citation's come-back.

Arcaro stepped in when Calumet's former great little rider, Al Snider, was drowned in Florida in 1948. Eddie piloted Citation to the triple crown and horse of the year honors.

Brooks, however, is currently the regular rider for Warren Wright's Calumets out here "and presumably will get the chance to make his own choice."

WCH Team Wins Greenfield Match

The Washington C. H. entry in the Greenfield duck pin bowling loop won the first and last games of their match with the Forest Shade Grangers Wednesday night.

They lost the middle tilt when the Grangers got red hot and tallied 811—that was 15 pins better than the best game of the WCH

Man O' War Best Horse of Half Century

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9—(AP)—Samuel D. Riddle, now 88 years old and still riding horses, smiled as he was told Man O' War had been picked as the horse of the half century in the Associated Press poll.

"They're right," he beamed, "they picked the right horse. There hasn't been a horse like Big Red before or since. There have been many great horses, you understand, but none quite like Man O' War."

Sitting in his box atop the clubhouse at Hialeah Race Course, Riddle, the man who bought Big Red, trained him, raced him and retired him, turned his memory back 32 years when he first sighted Man O' War, an unbrushed yearling, sunburnt and thin.

"You'll hear fifty people tell you how they influenced me to buy him," Riddle cautioned, "but don't you believe it. I sent my trainer down to look over August Belmont's batch of yearlings for sale, and the trainer said he didn't see anything worth while. So I went myself."

"I saw this yearling in the last stall and asked the groom if he had been set aside. The groom said no, he was for sale too."

"When that big red horse—he stood sixteen hands high—poked his head through the door my heart skipped a little. I knew right away I had to have that horse. So I paid $5,000 for him."

Own Alumni Group Is Set Up by Reds

CINCINNATI, Feb. 9—(AP)—The colleges won't have anything on Cincinnati's National League Reds. The Redlegs are going to have their own alumni association, too.

President Warren C. Giles of the Reds yesterday disclosed plans to form an alumni association among men who have played on the various Cincinnati National League teams.

Schnittker Leads Big Ten Scorers

CHICAGO, Feb. 9—(AP)—Dick Schnittker, Ohio State's flashy forward, continued to pace the Big Ten basketball scoring parade today with a 20.8 average. He has three more conference games to play before closing his career as a Buckeye.

Schnittker is followed by Wisconsin's Don Rehfeldt who has compiled a 19.6 mark in five Big Ten games and Minnesota's Meyer (Whitey) Skoog, whose average is 18.5 for six league tests.

Schnittker and the Buckeyes take leave of Big Ten competition this weekend when they play Michigan State's Spartans at Columbus Saturday and Missouri at Columbia Monday.

Hornsby Coming Back

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 9—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby is coming back to where you remember him best—to a baseball diamond.

The graying, husky Hornsby last night signed a one-year contract to manage Beaumont of the Class AA Texas League.

BLOOD on the STARS by BRETT HALLIDAY

SYNOPSIS
Marry Dustin is on the point of buying a beautiful wife, Celia, a star ruby bracelet which Walter Voorland, the dealer, claims is the finest in the world. When Mike Shayne, a detective, questions its authenticity, Upsturbled, Voorland convincingly explains the bracelet's rare qualities, and Mike, reassured, sits it on Celia's wrist. He buys it when told it may be insured at full purchase price, one hundred eighty thousand dollars, plus tax. Fear grips Celia who had been a poor girl when the fabulous jewelry was delivered to their luxurious hotel suite. Her premonition of evil is fulfilled later that night when their car is held up by bandits who cruelly beat Mike and snatch the fortune in treasure from Celia's wrist. The police enter the case, declaring it a well-planned crime. Mike Shayne is enjoying a cozy home-cooked dinner with his sweetest, Lucy, when he is summoned by phone to enter the Dustin jewel robbery case. Sensing fun and danger ahead, Mike whirls into action.

CHAPTER TWELVE
"IN THIS CASE it wasn't difficult at all for the detective chief to think I stole the bracelet," said Shayne explosively. He held up his left hand with the five fingers extended and turned down one big-knuckled finger as he made each point:

"Here's what he's got: You wanted the bracelet for yourself. You said so right out loud and I admitted out loud I couldn't afford it. We were there and heard Voorland's sales talk and the price. We heard Dustin say his wife wanted it to wear tonight. Added to that, I'm an unscrupulous so-and-so who has been getting in Petey Painter's hair for the past seven years, and it's his theory that if you throw enough mud some of it is bound to stick."

"But everyone knows you here in Miami," Lucy looked at him, her brown eyes asked.

"That's just it," Shayne grinned suddenly, got up and pinched her cheek. "Wait until you read this story the way Painter hands it out to the papers. You'll discover that we've discovered some sort of orgy that requires star rubies dissolved in blood with which we drink a toast at the stroke of midnight under a full moon when Jupiter is in the ascendency."

"Stick around, darling, and you will," Shayne grinned suddenly, got up and pinched her cheek. "Wait until you read this story the way Painter hands it out to the papers. You'll discover that we've discovered some sort of orgy that requires star rubies dissolved in blood with which we drink a toast at the stroke of midnight under a full moon when Jupiter is in the ascendency."

You'll discover that we've discovered some sort of orgy that requires star rubies dissolved in blood with which we drink a toast at the stroke of midnight under a full moon when Jupiter is in the ascendency."

"That's just it," Shayne grinned suddenly, got up and pinched her cheek. "Wait until you read this story the way Painter hands it out to the papers. You'll discover that we've discovered some sort of orgy that requires star rubies dissolved in blood with which we drink a toast at the stroke of midnight under a full moon when Jupiter is in the ascendency."

American Cops

Israel Pattern

Study To Be Made Of U. S. System

NEW YORK—Israeli Police Inspector General Yeheskel Sahar says he hopes to incorporate into the Jewish state's police force some of the best features of American criminal investigation and traffic control methods.

Toward this end, he told reporters, he will solicit the cooperation of leading police and federal authorities of the United States. The main purpose is to give Israel a modern, expert force of perhaps 4,500 policemen and policewomen.

Sahar said there is a big job for his country's police force in combating a "moderately high" ratio of crime, in patrolling the borders of the Arab states and in the untangling traffic congestion in the narrow streets of several Israeli municipalities.

One of Sahar's plans is to send selected Israeli policemen to United States training academies. These students then would return to Israel to teach new recruits what they learned. Sahar said he would request cooperation from New York City's Mayor William O'Dwyer and Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien and also J. Edgar Hoover, director of the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Another plan is to keep Amos Ben Gurion, Israel's chief police training officer, who is here with Sahar, in the United States long enough to learn how America's law enforcement officers are taught, Sahar and Ben Gurion, son of Premier Ben Gurion, came to this country at the invitation of Mayor O'Dwyer and Commissioner O'Brien.

Punishment is another Israeli problem. Although death by hanging is the penalty for murder, Sahar said, "we are not carrying out the executions." Death sentences are being commuted to life terms, he said. The sentence for housebreaking ranges from two months to two years, and armed robbery up to seven years.

Along the borders, Sahar said, there has been much cattle rustling by Arab bands. He declared there also has been much smuggling.

Until now, said the inspector general, Israel has recruited its police from people ranging in age over 28, mostly from former army personnel. Included among about 3,000 Jewish police are about 200 Arabs to handle problems affecting other Arabs.

Sahar is a former British army officer. He served in Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army in North Africa, Malta, Italy and Austria during World War II. After the war he became secretary and military aide to Dr. Chaim Weizmann, now president of Israel.

True Love Still Bleeds

While Cake Gets Stale

DARLINGTON, England (AP)—Baker John Naughton wonders whether a customer of his patched it up with her boy friend or just forgot about him. The customer—a pretty girl about 22—walked into Naughton's shop and placed a rush order for a cake to give her estranged friend. She wanted it inscribed, "my true love lies bleeding."

Three weeks have passed, the cake has gone stale and she still hasn't come around to pick it up.

Railroad Wins Tax Levy Suit Against County

Real Estate Exempt Under Decision By Supreme Court

Under decision of the Ohio Supreme Court, Wednesday, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. won a suit contesting a conservancy district tax levy against its personal property in Fayette County.

The suit was in the nature of a test case, and is of statewide importance, inasmuch as most of the railroad property, not only in Fayette County, but in the state generally, may be classified as personal property instead of real estate. As a result heavy losses in taxes may occur in the various counties of the state.

In Fayette County, the company's property was valued at $1,402,350, for a 3 of a mill levy for the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District.

The railroad contended that the levy should be placed against only $69,900 worth of real estate instead of listing the whole property as real estate.

In other words, the B. & O. claimed that $1,331,435 of the $1,401,350 valuation should be personal property instead of real estate.

This means that the conservancy tax would be $20.97 a year instead of $420.40, according to County Auditor Ulric Acton.

Officials of many counties were watching the result of the supreme court action.

Loss For Taxes Heavy

The State Board of Tax Appeals had said only real property should have been considered, but it had no authority to correct it by reclassifying the property.

The Supreme Court held that a county Board of Revision and the Board of Tax Appeals have authority to correct levies improperly made against personal property. Other county officials in the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District had declined to make the change in reclassifying the property of the railroads.

Other railroads also filed protests against paying the conservancy tax on all of their property, claiming that most of their property in the district is personal property and not real estate.

Not only is the decision far reaching as regards special levies such as conservancy districts, but the railroad and other corporations, it is pointed out, may ask that it apply to taxes generally. Since the rates on personal property are much lower than those on real estate values, the loss in taxes on B. & O. property in this county in a single year would be approximately $6,910, Acton said.

The D.T. & I. and Pennsylvania also had protested tax on all of their property, claiming most of
